About Our Company

For over 20 years, EPSIIA has provided industry leading electronic document management solutions focusing on high volume storage, retrieval and distribution of business-critical documents. EPSIIA technology supports discovery, customer service, document archive, report distribution, and statement presentment applications in a broad range of industries. EPSIIA's DXR Suite is a comprehensive document management platform designed for high volume electronic archiving, delivery and presentment. DXR is available as licensed software or as a service run out of EPSIIA managed facilities. EPSIIA also offers comprehensive services including high volume CD/DVD-ROM production and distribution; managed e-document presentment, enrollment, notification and delivery services; and an experienced consulting and solution design team.

Products and Services

EPSIIA's DXR Suite is a comprehensive document management platform designed for high-volume electronic archiving, delivery and presentment. DXR is available as licensed software or as a service run out of EPSIIA managed facilities and includes:

DX Record — Engine for high-volume ingestion, indexing, encryption and compression of complex print streams with a full suite of administrative tools to automate the creation and management of the document repository.

DX Server<sup>Plus</sup> — Back-office server for organizing and accessing the repository over the Web with standard interfaces that facilitate integration into existing Web environments.

DX View — PC, LAN and Web-based user interfaces for easy and secure document searching, viewing and downloading in any format, including PDF, XML, plain text and HTML.

EPSIIA's services include:

COLD/ERM Service Bureau — High-volume CD/DVD-ROM production and distribution services, capable of managing highly complex fulfillment scenarios under extremely aggressive service level agreements.

Hosted E-document Solutions — Managed e-document presentment, enrollment, notification and delivery services, providing 24x7 data access from fully redundant and secure hosting facilities.

Professional Services — Experienced consulting and solution design team with over 60 years of experience managing solution deployments and complex data conversion projects.
